The British Market

Landfill diversion, incentives for bioenergy

- By 2020 Great Britain will need over 250 new facilities for the treatment of wastes and biomass.
- The UK produces 100 million tonnes of food waste each year that could be used to produce biogas. There is a demand for anaerobic digestion facilities to deal with food waste, agricultural material and sewage sludge.
- 2 million tonnes per year of additional thermal capacity is required.
- Pyrolysis, gasification, as well as incineration with energy recovery are supported by the incentive scheme.
- The production of biogas and biomass CHP are eligible for the highest renewable obligation credits.
- In the UK, more than 50% of wastes are still landfilled. Increasing landfill taxes make this uneconomical.
- In addition to this, landfill bans are being proposed, e.g. for food waste, waste wood, green/garden waste, paper/card, and plastics.

At EBW UK, the Buyer comes to You!

EBW UK is the leading international showcase for products and services that help divert waste from landfill and produce clean energy.

The exhibition and conference attract hundreds of decision-makers from the public and private sector who are looking for means to deal with waste and biomass in an economical and environmentally-friendly way.
